Dear Hiring Manager:

RE: Manufacturing Process Engineer, Intermediate

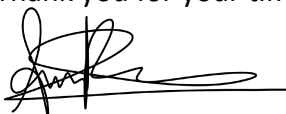

I am writing to express my interest in the Manufacturing Process Engineer, Intermediate position on LinkedIn. As a candidate with experience in managing the entire QMS and quality department for a company in a highly regulated industry such as yours, including managing audits, leading CAPA's, resolving NC's, developing and performing validation and qualification activities, and combined with my ability to quickly adapt and grasp new concepts, I am confident that I will be a great fit for the role.

This opportunity to join your family greatly interests me because my experience and education perfectly aligns with the opportunity, and I am certain I will be able to make meaningful contributions to the company. My education, experience in highly regulated industries and peer recognized certifications in the domain of quality and continuous improvement is a testament that I can competently execute the responsibilities of the role. My zeal to constantly improve, both in my knowledge and in my skills, would be an asset to you.

My stint at Arrayus was full of challenges but I was able to distinguish myself very quickly and was assigned increasingly complex roles and responsibilities in a very short time. I am MRI screened and know my way around them. I was a key player in making the start-up company implement quality policies and a QMS. I played a pivotal role in the transfer of research technologies into manufacturing including implementing cGMP's, personnel training, supplier and asset management, equipment qualification, and driving engineering changes (ECO). I learned a lot: I am an engineer and always thought the technology would be the biggest challenge I face. However, it turned out that training and convincing people is a much bigger challenge-but I still succeeded!

Throughout my career, I have demonstrated the highest levels of service and commitment to the mission of any organization I have worked for. I'd be delighted if you'd give me a chance to discuss how I might add value to you.

Thank you for your time and consideration and I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,

Arun Baby
